DECISION TO ENTER CONFLICT IS UNANIMOUS

Prominent Germans in Pekin Prepare to Go to Java for Protection

FENG KWO CHANG IS PROCLAIMED PRESIDENT

Parliamentarians Assemble at Canton to Organize Military Regime

Pekin, Aug. 2 (Delayed)—Acting President Feng Kwo Chang today approved the unanimous decision reached at a special meeting of the Chinese cabinet to declare war on Germany and Austria-Hungary. Prominent Germans in Pekin are conferring with the Dutch minister in China to make arrangements to go to Java. The Spanish minister probably will take over the interests of Austria-Hungary. Premier Yuan Chi Jui and his political followers insist that Feng Kwo Chang as the vice president automatically became president when Li Yuan Hung declined to resume office.

Parliamentarians are assembling at Canton and are preparing to organize a military government with the sanction of parliament, and to elect a president. Acting President Feng Kwo Chang has asked for liberal appropriations to suppress the southern military element.

ZIMMERMAN LEAVES POST

Berlin, Aug. 6—Official announcement was made today that five ministers of state, including Foreign Secretary Zimmermann, and four secretaries of state, including Finance Minister Lott and Imperial Minister von Loebell have resigned their portfolios.

Dr. Richard von Kuehlmann, the German ambassador to Turkey, has been appointed secretary for foreign affairs as successor to Dr. Zimmermann.

In a character sketch of Dr. Richard von Kuehlmann, who was just appointed secretary for foreign affairs, a newspaper says he has always been a vigorous opponent of ruthless submarine warfare. The newspaper further says he is a disciple of the policy of doing everything possible to prevent the further alienation of Great Britain, believing that after the war friendship between Great Britain and Germany is necessary to the latter.

Dr. von Kuehlmann, the paper says, is an annexationist and the newspaper expresses the opinion that he will do his utmost to bring about an early understanding with England.

The ministers and secretaries of state who resigned were:

Minister of Justice, Dr. Besler, appointed November 1905.

Minister of ecclesiastical affairs, Dr. von Trot zu Solz, appointed in July, 1909.

Minister of agriculture, domains and forests, Dr. von Schorlemer, appointed in 1910.

Minister of finance, Dr. Lott, appointed in August, 1910.

Minister for interior, Herr von Loebell, appointed in May, 1914.

KERENSKY HAS NEW CABINET

Dickinson, N. D., Aug. 6—John North of Winona, Minn., an I. W. O. member in the Dunn county jail at Manning for sedition, utterances and for failure to register at Rochester, Minn., his last legal residence, was indicted as a slacker by the federal grand jury on testimony of State's Attorney Johnson and Deputy Sheriff Dawes of Dunn county. North joined the Industrial Workers of the World as Frank Dulce July 22, 1916. He declared to Dunn county officials that he belonged to a section of the I. W. O. pledged to resist registration and draft.

Poverty Forces Mother to Give Away Six Children

MRS. MARY PALAMY AND CHILDREN

Chicago, Aug. 6—Poverty has driven Mrs. Mary Palamy to give away her six children for adoption, so they may escape the suffering through which she has gone.

Mrs. Palamy advertised for foster parents and the next morning a crowd of willing mothers gathered at her home. By noon, each of the six children had found new parents, while more men and women called to see them during the day.

The children range from the age of 1 to 9. Each has gone to a different home. John, the oldest, ran away from his new home and wanted to remain poor, but he was induced to return.

DRAFT RIOTS FATAL TO THREE; BANDS ROUTED

Oklahoma Authorities Report That Situation Now Is Well in Hand

INDIANS GIVE POSSE VALUABLE ASSISTANCE

More Than 200 Members of Various Bands Placed Under Arrest

Oklahoma City, Okla., Aug. 6—With the uprising of armed organized bands of objectors to the selective draft that for nearly a week has spread a reign of terror throughout four southern Oklahoma counties thought to have been brought under control and the seat of the trouble isolated in Seminole county, with sufficient heavily armed posse to hurriedly stamp it out the war map unexpectedly shifted late last night to Hughes county. Two men were killed, two others wounded, and conditions have not been cleared up early today.

Placed Under Arrest. More than 200 members of the various bands, mostly of the poor tenant farmer class, have been placed under arrest and it was announced that with the exception of two bands one comparatively strong it was believed the section had been cleared. Early last night it was reported that trouble was brewing in Hughes county, and shortly before midnight Edward Blatlock, an objector, was shot to death near Holdenville and two members of the posse his hand encountered were wounded. It was reported that one of the wounded possemen had been carried off by the rioters and heavily reinforced possemen started to his rescue. Later it developed that he had not been captured and it was hoped early today that the posse which went to his aid might effectively dispose of that band.

Leaders at Large. Later J. F. Roon of Okemah was shot and killed as he drove a motor car toward Holdenville. He was apparently unaware of conditions that had resulted in a cordon of armed citizens being thrown completely around the town. He was killed when he did not heed an order to stop. Three of the men held responsible for spreading the propaganda with the promises that resulted in the uprising are believed still to be at large but officers expressed the belief that with the capture of these men the outbreak would be put down completely.

Disguised as Women. With the death last night of two men three men had been killed in the four days of guerrilla warfare. Full blooded Indians many of whom

FATE OF SECOND UNCERTAIN; ONE COMPANY SHORT

Major Settle Proceeding With Muster of Eleven Companies Recognized by Mann

TRANSFER MADE BY GEN. FRASER TO FILL QUOTA

Switching of Men at Last Moment Brings Companies Up to Requirements

The fate of North Dakota's Second regiment of infantry still hung in the balance at noon today. Major Douglas Settle, chief mustering officer for North Dakota, advised that the mustering of 11 companies which have complied with the war department's new requirement of a minimum strength of 100 men, announced Saturday night only three hours before the troops passed from state control, is proceeding today. The twelfth company, upon which the existence of the regiment hinges, is at Hankinson, not recognized Major Settle states, because it reports but 33 men. In spite of everything that could be done to arouse enthusiasm apathy has kept Hankinson in its grip, and North Dakota may lose the honor of mustering a Second regiment of National guard because of the failure of one community to maintain the state record for patriotism.

The recognition of the Second as a whole is still uncertain, said Major Settle today. "Only 11 companies have complied with the federal requirements, the regiment is one company short of the standard set. Whether it will be recognized in addition I cannot state. My orders to enter include only the 11 companies which have met federal requirements. We are proceeding with the mustering of these companies now."

Question of Transfer. The last official act of Adjutant General Fraser in connection with the Second regiment taken only a few minutes before this regiment, under the draft, passed from control of the state for the period of the war, was the transfer of men from companies whose strength far exceeded the required minimum to other companies that had not been so successful in recruiting. This transfer, if recognized by the federal government, will save the Second as it gives each of the latter companies more than 100 men, and makes the total strength of the regiment 1,200. The physical transfer of men to their new company assignments was an impossibility in the time allotted. Had the Second been mobilized at Fort Lincoln, the actual transfer could have been made, the regiment, until midnight Saturday was in control of the state of North Dakota, and any transfer which Adjutant General Fraser may have chosen to make would have been entitled to recognition. Such transfer was made on paper and there is a record of it in the adjutant general's office. If the war department chooses to recognize this transfer the Second is safe. If the war department does not recognize this act as official recognition for the Second as a unit may be forfeited.

If the regiment is not accepted as a whole, it may mean the discharge of Colonel Frank White and the entire field and staff, the reorganization of the 11 companies accepted into a new regiment, and the officering of this regiment by the war department with men of its own choosing, either from the regular army or from some other source.

Fate of the Second. For three hours Saturday night the fate of the Second regiment hung in the balance. Adjutant General Fraser and other military authorities were thunderstruck when at 9 o'clock Saturday evening they received a message from Brigadier General Mann of the militia bureau recognizing as separate units the Bismarck gun company at Dickinson, Co. A. Minot, Co. C. Crosby, Co. D. Devils Lake, Co. E. Langdon, Co. H. Harvey and Co. I. Bismarck, with the officers in command of the same except as to the second lieutenant of Co. C. rejected because he is under 21 but stating that "unless the remaining lettered companies of the regiment are completed at minimum strength of 100 enlisted men before midnight the companies B, E, H and I and headquarters and supply company cannot be accepted as organizations but the enlisted strength will respond to the draft as individuals. Should these companies and regiment comply with requirements of date midnight to night they will be drafted August 1. The same rule will be followed as to the sanitary detachment whose recognition will depend upon that of the regiment. The enlisted personnel will be in any event."

Deal Was Switched. When the organization of the Second regiment was authorized June 30 local military authorities were as ordered the regiment would be accepted with a minimum strength of 60 men to each company. The regiment was recruited up to that strength within ten days, and while none of the com

LARGEST WAR TAX BUDGET IS REPORTED

Government Proposes to Raise $2,600,970,000 in the First Installment

PARCEL POST ASSESSED UNDER NEW MEASURE

Estimated That Increases Means Levy of About Seventy Five Cents Per Capita

TO TAKE RECESS. Washington, Aug. 6.—A congressional recess in September is the goal toward which the leaders now are working. Before taking a vacation, however, congress must clean up important pending legislation. The house already has cleared its slate of war legislation, and is waiting for the senate to act. The most important of these measures are the conference reports on the food and the war-tax bills.

Meantime the house will take a series of three days recesses, the first of which will begin tomorrow. Congress will take a recess of at least six weeks, according to present plans.

Washington, Aug. 6.—The war tax bill finally revised to meet latest estimates was favorably reported today by the senate finance committee. It proposes to raise $2,600,970,000 by taxation.

The house bill proposed $1,867,000,000 in new taxes. No provision for additional bonds to be considered later by the house are made in the senate bill.

Chairman Simmons plans to call up the revised bill for debate the latter part of the week, and hopes for its final enactment by congress early next month.

Most of the new taxes proposed under the revised bill for war expenses of the present fiscal year would come from incomes, war excess profits, liquor and tobacco taxes.

Strikes Out Retroactive Tax. The revised senate bill strikes out the retroactive upon last year's incomes, by principally increasing surtaxes on wealthy persons, and by doubling the normal taxes on corporations, proposed to raise $777,000,000 in addition to $439,000,000 now secured from incomes. It proposed a levy of $362,000,000 on war profits, and extends the tax on individuals in trade or business as well as corporations.

The total estimated increase in federal revenue by $2,600,970,000 proposed under the amended bill, was said to be conservative by experts. Many of those in charge of the revision believe the bill will, in actual operation, yield many millions more.

The war tax bill was reported to the senate today as revised by the finance committee to meet the latest estimates for war expenditures.

The majority report was submitted by Chairman Simmons, who explained that the committee's revision of the house bill was on the principle of raising revenues with the least burden upon the public. A substitute report with a substitute bill is expected from Senator Follette Senators Gore and Thomas also plan a separate report.

Senator Simmons' report stated that a flexible scientific war tax structure had been constructed by the senate committee for the imposition of war taxes—the largest tax budget in American history—as well as for future tax increases declared probable.

Income, war profits, liquor and tobacco taxes increases the majority report pointed out from the nucleus of the revised bill.

Regarding the elimination of the house retroactive income taxes on 1916 incomes which would have produced $168,000,000 the report stated:

Unsound in Principle. This tax seemed in principle both morally and economically unsound. It comes of the last year have paid their taxes and the balance has either been spent or saved and added to capital in which form it will yield returns in the ensuing year. To tax this tax paid income again is not only double taxation of a peculiarly obnoxious kind but would possibly compel a taxpayer to impair his disturbing taxes which would alarm business and check industrial productivity. It is very poor economy and would hold out a threat of uncertainty.

In recommending the graduated war profits tax upon individuals as well as corporations in lieu of the present eight per cent excess profits law the committee said it plan is similar to that of European countries where it was had marked success.

Higher Taxes. We must face the possibility even the probability, the report stated, of even higher taxes than are now proposed in this country and we must adjust our system so that it will work satisfactorily even under increased rates.

Your committee has not been able to find any satisfactory reason why individuals, engaged in trade and business should not be subject to this tax (war profits) as well as corporations and partnerships. Under the present law the report

300 Killed When Plant Blows Up

Explosion at Henningsdorf One of the Worst Catastrophes of Present War

CITY ISOLATED BY POLICE AND TROOPS

London, Aug. 6.—According to reports received from the German frontier by the correspondent at Amsterdam of the Exchange Telegraph company the explosion at Henningsdorf was one of the worst catastrophes of its kind in Germany since the war began. A munitions factory was wiped out, three hundred persons killed or wounded and enormous damage done. Henningsdorf has been isolated by police and troops.

SLACKER SLEUTH IN EACH COUNTY TO WATCH BOARD

Government Will Name Man to Take Exceptions to Local Exemptions Granted

PERSON NOT REPORTING ORDERED INTO SERVICE

TEMPORARY RELEASE. Washington, D. C., Aug. 6.—Provision to protect harvesting from shortage of hands has been made by the government in regulations now going out to district exemption boards. "Drafted men, needed in the fields to complete the harvesting, will be permitted to remain at work until the need for them passes when they will join the colors. Local boards will determine what men are needed in the fields."

Applications for delay on this ground may be submitted to the district boards. The papers of harvest hands will be returned by the district board to the local boards, where selection will be made. The local boards are authorized to arrange their quotas in five divisions, or increments, which will be ordered out for service in order.

Registrants who procure from local boards by misrepresentation or other means exemptions to which they are not entitled are to be looked after by a slacker sleuth who will be named for each county in North Dakota by Governor Frazier this afternoon. In many cases this official will be the county judge but for any reason which may appear good to the authorities exceptions may be made to this rule and some other person be named.

Instructions governing this point were received this morning by wire from Provost Marshal Crowder who says: "The names of all registered men are on a list arranged in the order in which they will be called for military service. Whenever any registered person imposes upon a local board and improperly secures a certificate of exemption or discharge he advances the time of call of all other uncalled persons on the list. For this reason every registered person and to some extent every person less directly interested in seeing that the true facts are brought to the attention of the government."

For every local board a person has been designated who will receive information of such cases and take appeals to the district board and inform the local board. For this reason the public is entitled to know the grounds upon which claims for exemption or discharge are being asked by registered men. Local boards should therefore be instructed immediately to make a table to the press from day to day the name of persons claiming exemption or discharge, the ground on which such claim is based and in general the number of cases that are being disposed of by the board from day to day. This instruction does not apply of course to discharges on the grounds of physical disqualification.

Proceedings Open. This is taken to mean that all proceedings of the local boards will be open to the public and that any citizen who takes exception to any exemption granted for cause other than physical disqualification will have a right to attend and his protest must be considered.

Persons Not Reporting. Names of persons not exempted or discharged and who fail to report for examination or reporting decline to submit to a physical examination are according to instructions are to be reported on special forms provided for this purpose and not included in the regular list of men called for service. These reports will be forwarded by the district board to the adjutant general who will then mail to each person so listed a formal notice that he has been selected for

GERMANS FAIL TO SHAKE HOLD OF ALLIED ARMY

Tremendous Cannonade on Flanders Front Followed by Attack

CENTRAL POWERS ACTIVE NEAR AVOCOURT WOOD

None of the Counter Attacks Meet With Any Success

ORDERED SHOT. London, Aug. 6.—General Masovskiy, commander of the Russian retreat on the Galician front has been ordered shot, according to a Petrograd paper. This court martial sentence came from General Korniloff, commander in chief, for non-compliance with his orders to shoot deserters.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS. Yesterday's tremendous cannonade on the Flanders battle front was followed last night by two German attempts to shake the British from their hold on important sections of newly won ground. Neither of these met with success, however, London reports.

The first attack was launched in the Hollebeke region. The Germans did not even succeed here in reaching the British lines. Later, the German front laid down a barrage at West Hoek and the infantry tried to push in under its cover. They met with no more success than they had at Hollebeke.

On the French front, aside from the Flanders area, there was considerable activity on the part of the Germans. They attacked in the region of Bouville at Avocourt wood, and in Alsace. The French guns were able to cope with the situation in each case, Paris announces.

SENATOR REED HEADS ATTACK

Washington, Aug. 6.—Consideration of the conference report on the administration food control bill was resumed in the senate today with a bitter fight ahead, lead by Senator Reed of Missouri, against its acceptance. Administration leaders however, hoped to put the legislation through by Wednesday and have it ready for the president's signature before the end of the week. Senator Reed continued the attack on the measure which began Saturday. Several other senators, including Gore, and Hollis, were prepared to come to his aid.

As soon as the control bill is disposed of, the senate will take up the conference report on the first administration bill providing for a food survey act, and stimulation of production.

Senator Reed opened the debate on the food bill. Senator Chamberlain, in charge of the bill, sees no prospect of a vote within the next few days. Should protracted opposition develop a filibuster administration leaders are considering night sessions to force the opponents to speak continuously. The principal division was said to be among the democrats, the republicans being declared by their leaders to be almost solid for affirmative action.

Senator Reed called attention to an interview purporting to have been given by Mr. Hoover in which he threatens to "expose" members of congress who were opposing the bill.

BACKBONE OF DRAFT UPRISING IS BROKEN BY CITIZEN POSSE

Oklahoma City, Okla., Aug. 6.—With one of their leaders dead, another captured and at least 25 members of their bands in custody posse leaders today were of the opinion the backbone of the rising of objectors to the selective draft in Central Oklahoma has been broken.

The outlaws have been scattered into such small bands further success of resistance is believed impossible.

10,000 DRAFTED MEN PARADE CHICAGO STREETS

Chicago, Aug. 6.—Chicagoans answer to the call to the colors and Chicago's rebuke to slackers and draft rioters, marched through the streets Saturday to the music of military bands and the accompaniment of cheers from thousands along the way. Eyes front, determination on their faces and the flag of the country, today at each shoulder more than 10,000 of the young men whose names have been called by the draft boards swung through the streets. Sailors and civilians swelled the parade to 22,700 men.

TRAVELERS TO PICNIC AT FALCONER'S GROVE

Knight of the Grip and Their Families Invited for General Outing

Bismarck traveling salesmen and their families will hold their annual picnic at Falconer's grove, south of Fort Lincoln, next Sunday, under the auspices of Bismarck council, P. C. T. Every traveling salesman in Bismarck, whether a member of the council or not, is invited to participate in the outing.

Salemen who have automobiles are requested to report at Finney's corner at 10 o'clock Sunday morning. A demand for every available car is anticipated. "Dad" Leonard is in charge of preparations for the picnic. Food will be one of the important features of the day, which otherwise will be made memorable by games and races, tug of war, indoor and outdoor baseball and other sports.

Many Enjoy Dress Parade and Fine Concert at Fort

Last evening's beautiful weather brought out scores of Bismarck folk and visitors from the Slope for the dress parade and band concert at Ft. Lincoln. The Second regimental band played for dress parade and retreat. The boys of the Second battalion made an excellent showing, and the ceremony of lowering the colors at sundown was made very impressive by the band's playing of the national anthem as the troops stood at attention and the spectators looked on with bared heads.

Following retreat, the Second regiment band treated the visitors to an hour's concert in front of Major Wright's residence. Two violin selections by little Robert Best, accompanied by his sister, Marjory, added to the pleasure of the recital, which was the best the military band has given since its arrival here.

EXTRA SESSION NOT PLANNED SAYS FRAZIER

"Although the crop outlook is much better in the state," Mr. Frazier said, "some farmers will have nothing. They must be aided financially. The plan is to have the state issue bonds and loan sufficient money to the farmers to permit them to pay the debts and be tied over until next year."

"Farmers who have no crops must be aided during the winter, and Governor Frazier is in sympathy with the movement."

DENIES REPORT.

Governor Lynn J. Frazier, in a statement today denied reports from St. Paul that he would call an extra session of the legislature to help the financial condition of the farmers of the state on account of poor crops this year, as stated by J. G. Crites, general manager of the Equity Co-operative exchange.

"The state has no authority to issue bonds," the governor said, "and I have absolutely no intention of calling a special session of the legislature."

"This is a problem that will have to be financed in some other manner. It will either have to be taken up by the banks or by the federal government, as the state has absolutely no authority to do anything of this kind."

DRAFT RIOTS FATAL TO THREE

at first were reported to be hostile, have rendered valuable assistance in running down the rioters. They have followed trails over the country that would have been impossible for white men to follow. In some instances they have brought in prisoners single handed. In one instance of this kind, one old Indian came upon a party of three women, but heard one speak in a coarse voice. The rifle poked into the bonneted one's ribs caused the bonnet to fly off and disclosed a bald head. The objector, a man, was marched to town. As there was no place to imprison him the Indian tied him with a chain and stood guard until relieved to pursue his hunt.

United States District Attorney McGinnis announced this afternoon that men arrested on charges of resisting the draft in connection with the Oklahoma uprising, will be tried for treason and that the death penalty will be asked by the government. District Attorney McGinnis has sent two deputy attorneys to the affected district to gather information.

STARTS INVESTIGATION

Washington, Aug. 6.—Attorney General Gregory today began personal consideration of reports from district attorneys in Oklahoma, North Carolina, and other sections of the south as to anti-draft demonstrations.

Reports received by the department did not deal with the latest phases of the agitation, and fuller reports are awaited.

In the meantime, the department is carefully studying the situation.

Vast Organization of Experts Keeps Our Sammies in France Well Equipped

BY C. C. LYON

With the American troops in France Aug. 4—Bullets, bayonets, brains and business!

Just now, when thousands of American boys are training within sound of German guns and a million are getting ready to cross the Atlantic, brains and business, organization and efficiency, are demanded as much as guns and ammunition.

The American soldier can't fight unless he eats; he can't march unless he has shoes; he can't be rushed from one part of France to another unless there are adequate railroad facilities; he can't stand the gall of the trenches unless he is in sound physical condition.

"We need, in France, an army of trained business experts as well as fighters," said a high American officer.

"Our fighters won't count for much unless there is behind them an organization able to supply them with everything they need, when they need it."

Surrounding Gen. Pershing here are a number of keen, tireless men, working early and late, week days and Sundays.

These men have tackled the problems of how to bring into France every day, one pound of meat for every American soldier landed; a proportionate amount of other food stuffs; clothing, arms and ammunition; construction of salvage stations; importation of iron and steel and heating equipment for trench dug outs.

"We need hundreds of more experts," said a chief. "We consider it the patriotic duty of technically trained Americans to offer their services in their particular line."

The American "Sammy" is to be the best fed soldier in the world. He is to have one pound of meat a day, considerably above the allowance of other armies.

Practically every ounce of food for the American army must be brought from America.

Think of the transportation difficulties to be overcome. America must not only feed her European allies but she must find enough ships to keep her own army supplied.

Oil and gasoline also must come from America. A thousand tons of ice must be manufactured every day to preserve the food of a million fighters.

Heating the American dugouts next winter must be arranged, regardless of cost or difficulties in transport and apparatus from America.

For the hundreds and thousands of autos and trucks the Americans will use there must be hundreds of skilled mechanics.

For every division of troops it is figured 4500 tons of medical supplies and equipment will be needed.

The problems of business organization and efficiency will not be so difficult for Americans where they are fighting on their own soil, where the only transportation facilities would relate to the railroad.

But American push and energy will surmount all difficulties. The watchword of the business end of the American army at work is "product it will not be many months until the American back of business organization will be put as far ahead as that of the English and the French who have had three years' start of us in experience and operation."

"Shooting of Jack De Saulles Just What Might Have Been Expected"

BY HELEN TODD.

(Secretary of the International Child Welfare League of America.)

New York, Aug. 6.—The killing of Jack De Saulles by his wife was to be expected; you can't decree that motherhood and widowhood shall be the one dominating thing of importance in a woman's life, then take that away from her and not expect some kind of an explosion.

A woman's whole life is her love-life. Her personal relationship as a wife and mother, society has decreed and woman has accepted as the central dominating influence in her life.

When her faith in her husband is destroyed and she is shocked into a realization that her love dream has crashed into nothingness; when in addition to that the child that she has borne is kept away from her by the husband who has proved unfaithful; it is no wonder that the mind of the woman becomes temporarily unbalanced and that a tragedy such as this shooting occurs.

The wife who obtains a divorce from an unfaithful husband ought to have the custody of her child or children. Any other arrangement is only an added cruelty.

I do not say for a moment that the father should not be permitted to see the child. Many fathers who have been unfaithful to the women they married love their children as much as ever.

But the mother is the proper protector for her child.

Society has exalted motherhood and declared that it is the supreme duty of women to be mothers. Then let society take care it carries out its duty to the mother.

This girl—for she is little more than a girl, beautiful, cultured, refined—was wooed and won by De Saulles, who pursued her to Paris to press his suit. He is reported to have said of her that he thought her the most beautiful woman in the world.

Idealized in this way, she undoubtedly believed that she would always hold the affections of her husband.

But a few years shattered her dream. She was compelled to sue for divorce because another woman had entered her husband's life.

With nothing left of her love-life except her boy, she found that she would not even have him. The court decreed that the erring father was to have the child part of the year.

The young mother, torn with anguish at not being able to have her child with her, with her love life shattered, simply became temporarily unbalanced. The tragedy was the result.

The lesson is that man-made institutions, and man-controlled courts, ought not to try to take children away from their mothers. Children were made principally for mothers, just as mothers were made for children. Something will break down when men try to destroy this relation.

Please do not understand me to say that any woman is justified in taking a revolver and shooting the person who may happen to stand between herself and her child. But a thing of that kind is quite likely to happen if the provocation is sufficiently intense. I have the deepest sympathy for Mrs. De Saulles.

URGES PRISON LABOR ON PUBLIC HIGHWAYS

In a magazine article published under his name, S. M. Williams, general sales manager of the Garford Motor Truck company, makes a strong plea for the use of prison labor under proper conditions, in the construction and maintenance of public highways.

He urges this step, he says, not simply because of the economic benefit to be derived from the labor itself but also because its value in physical and normal reform.

His article in part follows:

"The public generally has been opposed to the employment of prison labor often because of unwarranted prejudices. The same feeling has caused condemnation of the exposure of prisoners on the public roads. Under the armed guard system, using the stripes, ball and chain, such a feeling was justifiable. Under the honor system, the men are inconspicuous in their gray or khaki uniforms, working like free men, without guards."

"Organized labor has at times opposed employment of prison labor upon public highways and has influenced the law makers so that they were blind to benefit, derived therefrom, but keen to the grievances of free labor."

"Road work benefits the working class in common with all others. Indirectly the betterment of roads must help everybody, in decreased cost of transportation of food and commercial products, and increased opportunities for so-called betterment."

"Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, says: 'The least possible competition of prisoners, as against free labor, would ensue in the building of roads, which would not only be beneficial to the pri-

THE GERMAN LANGUAGE PRESS. (Chicago Tribune)

It is said to be the intention of the government to find some method of dealing firmly with the German language press. If the rights of free speech and of opinion be invaded in this particular, the German language press will be obliged to reflect that the situation was created by its own lack of consideration, by its own lack of wisdom and of restraint.

A great deal of tolerance has been accorded many newspapers printed in the German language, and the damage they may be able to do if they impose upon this tolerance can be foreseen by any one. In our mixed society, incentives to disorder, grumbling, whining and rebellion must be discouraged. They cannot be tolerated. If the German language press has lost all sense of proportion and fitness, it may have to be dealt with in a fashion which ordinarily would disagree with American ideas of liberty.

Much as many sincere and enthusiastic German sympathizers may dislike the situation, the United States is not at war against the entire people of Europe, is not encouraged by stories of their failures and of the impossibility of success in the cause which we have made our own.

The United States is striving for a national morale, and everything which obstructs this effort is a danger to American success. The incongruity of trying to create national dismay when national resolution is needed cannot be hidden under the cover of journalistic freedom to print the news. An impartial handling of news can easily be distinguished from propaganda. The purpose of the offensive papers in the German language press is too conspicuous. It cannot be hidden. It protrudes defiantly. It is not shrewdly conceived or astutely executed. It is as bald as a mountain top.

It is not only the German language press which, in part, is offensive. There is German propaganda in English. The activities of George S. Viereck are in point. These things are abuses of citizenship, of hospitality, tolerance, and good nature.

We do not ask that any of the errors or defects of our allies be glossed over. We need to have our eyes open to our own and our allies' errors. But when this reasonable process becomes distorted into a glorification of our enemies and contemptuous criticism of our friends, when it takes the shape of rejoicing that our enemies cannot win, when it implies that the United States joins a lost cause and will be defeated in its efforts, then it becomes reptilian.

There will be some heated tempers in the easy-going United States when in a short time. Thus far we have few wounds, and they have not hurt badly. When the nation begins to ache it will cease to be amiable.

A GERMAN-AMERICAN REPLY

What the Organizations Might Have Said to the Enemy

(New York Times)

"The attitude of the National Security league to the argument that many of the German-American organizations already have declared their allegiance is that it would do no harm to repeat their declarations."

Kindly allow me to suggest that it might do an immense service if the many German-American organizations were to set aside all babbling about the crisis being "painful" and "vital" (what does Henry Weissmann mean by "vital" in his letter to Mr. S. Standwood Menken?) It would clear the atmosphere for the Kaiser and his Junkers admirably, incidentally for themselves and for the German people, if the German-American organizations were to issue such a statement, for example, as follows:

We, the United German-American organizations of America, bid defiance by word of mouth and with force of arms, to you, Kaiser Wilhelm, and to your pride-laden advisers, as the enemies of mankind. We shall endeavor with all our strength, if need be, to strip from you the last rag of outward dignity, to bring you and yours to full realization of the simple truth that your "divine rights" are the mockery of pampered brains. We shall endeavor to drag you from the high place to which you were accidentally born, through condescension to the common citizen (or only as a citizen) as the humblest citizen in Germany or America. We shall so drag you from your high place because you are an unspeakably foul criminal in the eyes of man and God, whose love for "his people" became as nothing when his self-love was consulted; who caused to be carefully nurtured a sentiment among "his people" that was to be used for his glorification as emperor—"his people," who are our people more than in name, whose blood on countless battlefields calls aloud for our vengeance.

Again we, the United German-American organizations of America, would say to those of our blood who still live, "A greater than any of us proclaimed, 'Ye must be either for Me or against Me,' and 'families shall be divided in My name.'"

We make war on anti-Christ militarism, on the system of military education from which many of us of German blood fled. You remained, and are today its creatures and directly the creatures of the ambitious few who lead you, like cattle, to the slaughter. Unwillingly enough at the beginning, while you were still sane, you entered into the struggle that was so palpably "useful" today. Obsessed by the blindness of your self-seeking masters, you make the infamy of those of "hoeheren Stand" your own. Righteousness and humanity are arrayed against your masters and you because of your slavish obedience to your leaders' commands. And now, under that egotistic leadership, you threaten the nation of our adoption which gave us shelter—this great democracy which for nearly a century and a half has been a land of refuge for oppressed people of all the world. Your masters, you, threaten blindly, with force, what we have sworn to defend. They and you will learn that the world is to be safe from your mad monarchy.

The German-American organizations who refuse to openly, distinctly, unequivocally assail the German Kaiser and Junkerdom, now that we are at war with this world menace, should be classified as either dangerous stragglers or the sort who represent what Goethe indicated when he wrote, "Mit der Dummheit kaempfen die Goetter selbst vergebens."

SOCIETY

Women's Auxiliary to Fill
Kits for Soldiers of Co. A

Each one of the 150 soldiers of Company A will be supplied with a soldier's kit before they are summoned east from Fort Lincoln. A special meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to Company A will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the home of Mrs. John L. Wilson, 315 Mandan avenue, when the kits will be filled. At the meeting held last Saturday afternoon in the Commercial club rooms much of the work of making the kits was completed and the meeting Wednesday will be for the purpose of filling them up with the various articles which the boys will need most at the battle front. The auxiliary has been assisted in the work by a number of local women and those from the surrounding towns.

Red Cross Chapter
Asking for More Workers

The local Red Cross chapter is feeling the need of more women workers. From the national headquarters comes the word that many bath robes, pajamas and bed shirts are needed and it is very urgent that they be sent to Washington at once. Communications from the headquarters are emphasizing "now," as a number of American troops are in France and many more will soon be sent.

Mrs. P. C. Remington, in charge of the local work, is very anxious that every woman of the Capital City be represented at the headquarters in the domestic science room in the high school building. Although a number of the city organizations are working there is plenty of work left for individual workers, who can come at any time during the five sewing days—Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Work will also be supplied to anyone wishing to do it at home. Anyone desiring to help can go to the headquarters or if organizations are working. The work is not confined to any one organization, society or set of individuals, but is open to all.

Work on the pajamas, bath robes and bed shirts will make up the schedule this week and as soon as a sufficient number is completed they will be sent to Washington. All the work for the Bismarck surgical corps is completed, and articles made now will go direct to the national headquarters.

The following societies will sew this week: Monday, Monday club, Tuesday, the Ladies' Aid of the Baptist church in the afternoon, and the Young Ladies' guild of St. George's Episcopal church, morning, Wednesday, the Fortnightly club, Thursday, the Presbyterian Ladies' Aid and the St. George's Episcopal guild, Friday, the Degree of Honor.

Announces Daughter's Marriage.

At a charmingly appointed luncheon given recently by Mrs. Frank McKenzie at her country home near Fargo, announcement was made of the marriage of her daughter, Miss Jennie Douglas McKenzie to Norman McLean Paul of Minneapolis. Their marriage was an event of June 12 in Minneapolis. The post-nuptial luncheon was so arranged to suggest a wedding and the bride and groom entered the dining room to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Mrs. Victor J. Remas of Fargo, formerly Miss Ethel McKenzie of Bismarck. The announcement of their marriage was made by Judge W. H. Karna of Fargo. The bride is very well known in Fargo and the capital city. She is a graduate of the Moorhead Normal school and attended the North Dakota Agricultural college. Mr. Paul and his bride will reside in Minneapolis.

Church Society Notes.

The Young People's society of the Trinity Lutheran church will meet in the church parlors Tuesday evening at 7:30. Weather permitting the evening will be spent on the capital grounds.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Trinity Lutheran church will meet Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. J. L. Rhud at her home 322 Main street.

Visits Friends Here.

George P. Flannery, president of the Northwestern Trust company of Minneapolis was in the city Sunday calling on old friends. Mr. Flannery, who was a resident of Bismarck in the '80s, stopped here en route from a western business trip. His son Harry Flannery, who was born in the capital city, is now assistant attorney general of Minnesota.

Fur Fashions for Real Winter

BY BETTY BROWN

Sew York, Aug. 6.—Fur on everything has been the summer rule. Even the chiffon hangings of a certain smart drawing room the bordered with fur. But judging from the vast number of pelts required for next season's garments, there is going to be mighty little fur left for the use of the interior decorators.

White fur, preferably fox and its imitations will continue to beguile much money from the purses of fair women. And especially alluring it is when combined with black velvet or velvet.

The Paris coat pictured today gives a good idea of the way fur will be used on the finest winter garments. This model is also ornamented with broad trinkets of heavy white silk, while the girdle line is emphasized by a splendid knotted cord.

The big red and white contrast was for its chief and some splendid all-black combination of fur and cloth.

A design which has that much desired "different" look is developed in castor brown velvet trimmed with skunk fur. This artistic suit shows huge fur revers below the waist corresponding to the collar revers, and the elbow ends which are a pronounced feature of first winter fashion showings. Another clever note of this costume is the gathered fullness beneath the arms.

In line with the times and over-drapes which will swish and swirl through the coming winter, is the panted coat, with a skirt cut into irregular lengths.

New coat materials are as soft as velvet and seem to require fur as a natural combination. Bolivia cloth is more luxurious than ever.

Velour in both plain and fancy weaves is used for both coats and suits.

Brocade will also be a staple suit material, and it is the one material more than all others which seems to improve when adorned with fur.

where they will be the guests of Judge and Mrs. E. B. Goss, former residents of this city.

Mrs. M. K. Wilcox of Charles City, Ia., arrived Saturday night on No. 1 for a few days' visit with her son, C. A. Wilcox, of this city.

Henry Halverson of the Grand Pacific returned today on No. 3 from a two weeks' vacation spent with his parents near Eau Claire, Wis. He also visited in the twin cities and Detroit, Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Swanson and three children of Wilton were guests over Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Falconer of Avenue E and Daniel Falconer of near the city.

Frank Allen of Newark, N. J., arrived in the city during the week-end and is the guest of Mrs. Helen G. Hadden and son, Elmer Hadden, of Second street. Mr. Allen, who is a former resident, will also visit his brother, Edward Allen of the McKenzie.

Mrs. R. J. Beckley of Sioux Falls, who is the guest of Mrs. E. H. L.

Professing a sincere admiration for the kindly character of the Russian people, "considerate of the rights and feelings of others, and with a high capacity for self control and a noble idealism," he pleaded for deep sympathy for the nation, "which is struggling with the problems that we have been studying for 140 years and have not yet solved."

BISMARCK TAKES TWO FROM NEW ROCKFORD

CAPITAL CITY TEAM GETS RID OF JINX SIGN

Plan Series of Five Games Here for the State Champion-

PLAY AT JIMTOWN TODAY FOR RED CROSS BENEFIT

Northrup Star of Sunday Match Pitching One Hit

Game

Bismarck got rid of its jinx sign Saturday and Sunday capturing two games from New Rockford.

The Saturday game was bagged 12 to 6 and Sunday's match was 3 to 2.

Grant pitched the first game and the Bismarck boys clouted New Rockford's pitchers, Wawo and Browning all over the field.

Northrup went in for Bismarck Sunday and held New Rockford down to one hit. He pitched elegant ball throughout the game. The team was on the mound for New Rockford.

Bismarck plays at Jamestown today for the benefit of the Red Cross.

There is a demand for a series of five more games at Bismarck with New Rockford to determine the state championship. It is believed that these games would draw well and be a fitting close to the local baseball season.

MACK CASTOFF PROVES EVEN THE WILY CONNIE MAKES MISTAKES IN JUDGMENT

By Paul Purman

Connie Mack is generally regarded as one of the greatest of managers.

It is baseball history that he has been able in the past to pick youngsters who in a year or so justified his judgment and came through with great baseball talent and ability.

It was Mack who found and made such players as Eddie Collins, Jack Barry, Jack McInnis, Frank Baker and Wallie Schang. Seldom has his judgment of a player been wrong.

But there is a young player in the National league today who is showing that Mack's judgment is not infallible.

Back in 1914 Mack secured Larry Kopf as an understudy for Barry, who was shortstopping then. He held on to him two years and then sent him back to the International league. He didn't even think Kopf was good enough to keep strings on.

This year, with the Reds, Kopf has proved one of the strongest links in Matty's infield chain.

His fielding has been excellent and he has batted about .265, a mark rarely reached by shortstops in the last few years.

SPORTS CHATTER

Ever Hammer wants to box Benny Leonard. It would be ever Hammered then.

Muggsy McGraw has gone into the movies. Wonder if they have a picture of him slugging Lord Byron.

And just when everybody is out boosting for Matty he loses five games in a row.

Forget about the hot weather and you won't feel the heat, comments an alert editorial writer. Forgetting might also be used with great results by:

The pitcher who is being knocked out of the box.

The box fighter, when the referee is counting him out.

The golfer who slices into a gravel pit.

Al Demaree has rejoined New

In 10 recent games Kopf was at bat 39 times, scored 11 runs and made 15 hits for an average of .385. In the Reds' winning streak in the east he was responsible for the scoring of more runs than any of his teammates, his batting being more opportune than that of his harder hitting teammates, Roush, Chase, Griffith, Groh and Neale.

When Kopf was given a regular berth this spring Matty was pretty freely criticized.

"How can Matty expect to make anything of a player passed up by Mack?" was the most frequent comment.

How does Matty do a lot of things might easily be the answer. Anyway Matty has made Kopf a high-grade infielder, a hard and timely hitter and a valuable addition to his ball club.

It just occurs that Kopf, hitting .265, batted rings around most of the great short fielders of 1916. His mark was equalled by Herzog; Maranville batted .235, Bancroft .212, Bush .225, Scott .232, and Peckinpaugh .255. So it may be seen that Kopf is quite a little above the average shortstop as a hitter.

Philadelphia osteopath tells Guy Morton that the troubles with his pitching arm are mostly imaginary. That's been the trouble with his winning average this year, too.

Johnny Kilbane wants to fight Benny Leonard again. Perhaps Johnny never heard that old adage about discretion being the better part of valor.

The army drill practiced by ball clubs should come in handy to Dick Hoblitzell who has volunteered for the dental corps.

Lawton Witt is the first big league player to be called by the draft. Playing with the Athletics should be sufficient cause for rejection.

Chicago headline says Cubs have been paid their salaries. What for?

IT'S ABOUT TIME BAN JOHNSON AND TENER INVESTIGATED SOME OF THEIR UMPIRES

Isn't it about time for the major league presidents to wake up to the situation they are creating by the employment of incapable umpires?

From practically every city around the circuit has come criticism this year of the decisions of the umpires in both leagues. Some of these have been so persistent that they deserve more than passing attention.

Perhaps the most flagrant case this year is that of "Lord" Byron. At least half a dozen times this year Byron has been in more or less serious trouble.

The famous McGraw incident at Cincinnati a couple months ago was the most notorious case. Incidentally McGraw was wrong in protesting the way he did when he left the field but as an umpire Byron had the right to appeal to President Tener rather than make remarks reflecting on McGraw's past.

Only a few days ago Byron's decision got him into so much trouble at St. Louis that fans threw pop bottles at him and one of the club magnates has asked those who attended the game to bombard Tener with telegrams protesting against his retention in the league.

Byron has also had trouble in New York and Boston.

Byron is not the only umpire who is continually in trouble. He is merely cited here as an example of the failure of league heads to investigate cases of umpires who are airing their incompetency almost daily.

In the American league the New York club recently protested that it had not been getting a fair deal on umpires. Captain Huston is quoted as saying:

"New umpires have to be broken into the league every year or so, but the better umpires should be sent to one city as well as another. New York has been given the poor umpires and the green men almost entirely and such men as Billy Evans have been conspicuous only by their absence."

Perhaps Ban Johnson and John K. Tener don't realize it, but baseball is kept alive by the fans who sit in the grandstands and bleachers.

The present-day baseball crowd has to be pretty mad before it will throw pop bottles. In most cities it is pretty fair in its treatment of umpires of the Evans, O'Day or O'Loughlin type who are known to be fair and who know what they are doing.

But this same crowd will resent unfair umpiring and will deride incompetent umpiring.

Ban and John would do well to look into the status of some of their arbiters. They are paying high prices and should get high-grade men. In some cases they are, in others they are being flamed along with the ball clubs and the public.

George Van Haltren Holds Consecutive Game Record

Eddie Collins and George Burns who have played in about 400 consecutive games have quite a little ways to go before they can consider themselves in the record-breaking class.

There is some discussion regarding the man who has played in the most consecutive games in the major leagues, but George Van Haltren, former Giant outfielder probably comes as close to a record as anyone with a record of 464 games.

Van Haltren's run began late in 1897 when he played the last three games with the Giants. The next three years he did not miss a game, playing 157 in 1898, 153 in 1899 and 141 in 1900. He played 10 games at the starting of 1901, bringing the mark to 464.

At this time Van Haltren was a veteran, having been in the game for more than 12 years. Later he umpired in the Pacific coast league.

HOW TO TELL RANK OF MEN IN NAVAL SERVICE

During the war naval officers must appear without the uniform. There are so many branches of service and so many officers in each branch that the civilian is frequently unable to determine the status of the man in naval uniform. Here are sleeve marks that will help you to determine the rank of men in the naval service.

FAMOUS CALDWELL WILL CASE TO BE TRIED AUGUST 27

Sister Joins With Mysterious J. C.
R. in Effort to Break Father's Testament

Dickinson, N. D., Aug. 6.—The famous Caldwell will case, in which a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Caldwell, both of whom were murdered at their home near Richardson by a ranch hand, Mike Chimack, several weeks ago, joins with the mysterious "J. C. R." who failed in district court a short time before the murder of his alleged parents to sustain his contention that he was then long missing son, Jay A. Caldwell, has been continued upon the application of attorneys on both sides until August 27, when it will come up in county court. The late J. H. Caldwell left an estate of $150,000 to an aged sister in Chicago in trust for 25 years for his missing son. His married daughter here was cut off with more substance, based upon assurance that her husband, to whom Caldwell always objected, should not profit from the legacy. The daughter has joined forces with "J. C. R." whose claims are supported by many neighbors of the late rancher, in an effort to break the will. "J. C. R." is residing near Dickinson, provided for by friends who believe that he is the missing Jay Allen Caldwell.

THE SAHARA, WHERE NATURE TRENCHES THE SAND, SEEN THROUGH THE MAGIC EYE IN THE SKY

The Mysterious EYE IN THE SKY is keeping the Arabs of the Sahara under the thumb of the French. Dame Nature is the only warrior who can trench the desert sand. So the French army officers refused to throw away their men putting down Arab guerilla warfare started by German spies and money.

With a few airplanes they patrol a territory three times as large as France. One squad at the manbird usually frightens the natives into submission. If that doesn't, one bomb does. Not a Frenchman has been lost, but the desert is as orderly as a desert can be.

No traveler's word picture can make the great Sahara as interesting as the sky view, taken from an airplane at high altitude. The old Moorish fortress city of Tixsebt, which outruns history, is shown in the foreground, and, behind, date palms growing between sand dunes, and fed by underground flow of water.

Dickinson Man Three Years' Prisoner of War Finally Home Again

Alexander Papelu, Stark County Farmer, Has Had Experience
That Reads Like Tale From the Arabian Nights—Still Ready to Fight for U. S.

Dickinson, N. D., Aug. 6.—With a very vivid realization of what the world's war means, Alexander Papelu is back on his ranch near Dickinson, after a three-year adventure which reads like an Arabian Nights tale. Papelu returned to Russia in 1914 to settle up business affairs and to wed an old sweetheart who awaited him there. Three days prior to the date upon which he was to sail with his bride for his new homeland, Austria declared war on Serbia; Russia drafted her first army, and Papelu was included in the draft. He was an American citizen, having been granted full papers in Stark county in 1914, but he had lost his copy of his citizenship papers while on the ocean; he had no passport, and the land of the bear claimed him. Before another copy of his citizenship papers, for which he immediately applied, could reach him, he participated in the battle of Przemysl, in which he and his fellow soldiers captured the fortress and 125,000 Austrians. When the Russian retreat began in 1915, Papelu, with 5,000 men, was left to hold the fort until Russian supplies had been taken to the rear. After withstanding a heavy German artillery fire three days and three nights, the fort surrendered on the fourth day, and Papelu became a German prisoner of war.

His tales of German prison camps and the privations which Russian prisoners suffered there are almost unbelievable. The prisoners, on the verge of starvation, ate roots and grasses in the fields, died from exhaustion at the tasks which they were compelled to perform and were generally treated as less than dogs, he declares. Later Papelu, with fellow prisoners, was transferred to an Austrian camp, where they fared somewhat better. During the seven months which he spent as a prisoner in Austria, he was regaled with meat once a week, and was permitted to sell his labor to farmers and small merchants for three cents the week. The Austrians, Papelu declares, are much better supplied with food than are the Germans; are more human to their prisoners, and are looking forward to the day when they can, without too great a sacrifice, consummate peace, whether it is joined in by Germany or not. Prussianism has not exerted its influence over Austria to any great extent, he asserts, and there is much less brutality among the Austrians, either in the field or in prison camps.

Norton Worked for Release. During all of these months that Papelu was serving and smarting under the goad of his European captors, the representative in congress from his district, Patrick D. Norton, of Hartington, spurred on by Papelu's bride, who, when her husband was wrested from her side at the end of a three days' honeymoon, continued, alone, her journey to her husband's adopted land, and here, among others, and without friends, fought for her husband's liberty, was making every effort to procure Papelu's release. There was much correspondence between the departments of state of the two nations; much diplomatic wire-pulling, and finally, in March, 1917, Austria granted Papelu his release, as an American citizen, impressed against his will into the service of Russia. "I paid him his accumulated wages of three cents per day, and gave him safe conduct to Switzerland. From Switzerland Papelu found his way into France. In then meantime America had declared war on Germany, and when Papelu revealed himself as an American citizen, the land of the allies opened its arm to him. Papelu made the most of the opportunity by eating whenever he was offered a dinner, and he returns to Dickinson showing little signs of wear.

Is Prosperous Farmer. Papelu has resided 11 miles south of Dickinson since 1908. He has a fine farm home and a good quarter section of land, and is rated among Stark county's prosperous farmers. He is now making the most of a belated honeymoon with a bride who is rejoicing in the repossession of a husband whom she had given up all hopes of ever seeing again. A peculiar feature of Papelu's three years' experience is that he had practically forgotten all the English he had learned during his residence here. On the other hand, he has become an able linguist so far as German and the Austro-Hungarian, or Slovenian and Croatian tongues are concerned, and he has picked up a good smattering of French. Papelu is past the draft age, but declares that with his bride's permission he is ready to enlist and assist Uncle Sam in avenging the insults which have been heaped upon him and other American citizens in Europe.

MARGUERITE CLARK

Marguerite Clark, having won one of her greatest successes on the stage in an adaptation of the Grimm brothers' beloved fairy tale "Snow White," has dusted off the darling little costumes which she wore in the play and has donned them again for the Famous Players version of the story which is the Paramount picture at the Bismarck theatre today. It is said that the motion picture goes straight to the original story for its source and that the adaptation is true to the Grimm conception in every detail. Especial attention has been given by Director J. Searle Dawley to the machinations of the witch Hef and of the wicked queen Braugoman, which can be depicted on the screen as readily as the author set it upon paper, because of the trick photography of which the motion picture camera permits.

NEW ARMY WILL NOT BE RUSHED TO CANTONMENTS; MAY BE NOV. 1 BEFORE ALL ARE UNDER SHELTER

By GILSON GARDNER.
Washington, D. C., Aug. 6.—About four out of five men are expected to claim exemption from selective service. This announcement comes from Provost General Crowder's office. A much smaller per cent will be exempted.

"Small towns in country regions are expected to show a larger percentage of men willing to accept service than big cities like New York," said one of the high officials in charge of this matter. "The foreign-born population of New York is opposed to compulsory military service, many of them having left their countries to avoid it. We are not surprised at the number of claims for exemption filed."

The question whether to exempt a physically fit man is up to each local board. The board is required to certify the quota required from its district, and if the board excuses the first men who present themselves, they must refuse to excuse those who later present themselves. Somebody must serve.

Work of physically and otherwise examining drafted men will probably continue for 30 days. General Crowder's office is hoping to have a complete roster of 650,000 men ready by the time the cantonments are ready. The cantonments are promised for Sept. 1; as a matter of fact, they will not be ready Sept. 1. General Littell talks hopefully and quite enthusiastically as to what has been accomplished up to date, but has not promised that the soldier cities will be really ready at the end of the next 30 days.

"We have accomplished miracles," said he, "but promising is risky. A lot depends on whether the last shipment of lumber, water pipe or sewer pipe comes through. Delay in some essential consignment might hold up completion of any of these projects." Probably most of the cantonments will have water systems in operation and be under roof by Sept. 15. By Oct. 1 they may have their other fixings in place, including some pavements. It is doubtful whether the men called for selective service will be actually put in these camps before October, since Secretary Baker has repeatedly announced he would not crowd a lot of new recruits into unfinished barracks.

General Gorgas, as chief of sanitary arrangements, must pass on any army camp before it begins to house men. If everything is completed to make the camp sanitary, the men may assemble even if the final trimmings are not completed. But, if necessary to wait until November, the men are to be made comfortable and kept healthy.

General Crowder will probably need the six weeks for getting his men, just as much as General Littell will need this time to build his soldier cities. Local exemption boards are working slowly. When they have finished, there is still a job to be done by the district exemption boards. There are 162 of the latter, one for each federal judicial district. It falls upon these boards to pass on all questions, touching the exemption of men on the ground that they are needed for certain industries.
